Federal Agent To Come Here In Few Weeks

T. E. Stephenson Declares Additional Bids May Be Made During Visit

HOUR of the eight sites offered as sites for a federal building in Santa Ana are inadequaate in size, and, in the opinion of Postmaster T. E. Stephenson, will not be acceptable unless additional area is added. Bids for the sites were opened in the office of the supervising architect of the U.S. Treasury department at Washington vesterday.

"The call for bids placed the minimum depth of the site," said Stephenson, "at 'about 155 feet When W. A. Newman, district engineer of the Treasury department was in Santa Ana last December he gave emphatic stress upon the fact that a federal building here musi have a depth of at least 150 feet. He explained that the government's rules require a distance of at least forty feet between the wall of the building and the nearest private property line. Ordinarily a 10-foot set-back line is followed. Thus 60 feet would be taken up, leaving only, on a 125-foot lot, 65 feet for the building. Four of the eight proper ties offered to the government are for 125-foot lots, and, I am sure, are inadequate as they are offered.' Stephenson said that a repre tions that will obtain throughout sentative of the Treasury depart-

A WORD OF COMFORT

How constantly men dwell upon what they believe is due them, and how easily they gloss over consideration of what they owe to God and to the world which surrounds them with comforts and luxuries. How much more interested most of us are in what is to be given to us than in what we are privileged to do for others!

Proposed School Project Will Be Discussed Today

The Santa Ana board of education and representatives from its citizens' advisory committee will meet at 5 p. m., today, in the board of education offices, where they will discuss the proposed elementary school building proj-est for this city.

Members of the board and citizens' committee met yesterday and held a preliminary discussion of the building needs and at the session today it is thought that the group's report will indicate the need for an elementary building program, the cost of which would be slightly under $500,000. At last Tuesday's session of the board proceedings were authorized for preparing for a bond election to be held early in June. Today's session is expected to carry the project a step further and lead toward a definite program for the elementary schools.

RESPONSIVE CROWD ATTENDS FIRST NIGHT'S PROGRAM OF SANTA ANA PLAY TOURNAMENT

Lively anticipations for tonight's events in the Southern California Tournament of One-Act Plays today were being entertained by the sponsors of the tournament, Santa Ana Community Players, and by friends and patrons of the association, who last night derived keen enjoyment from the opening program, the Claremont Players. Altogether different in theme and conception from "Thank You Doctor," the play proved fully as entertaining to the audience and appreciation was expressed in the continued applause.

"The Marriage Proposal," by Anton Chekov, concluded the bill and introduced three talented members of the Santa Monica group, These were Sherman Bainbridge, who combined the duties of director with his portrayal of the role of "Stepan Stepanovich," a Russian farmer; Jean Leslie, who played his daughter, "Natalia Stepano-vich," and Alan Moody, who appeared as his neighbor, "Ivan

The play was costumed strikingly and the actors made an excellent impression in their several roles, each showing a marked abiiity to do character work. The volatile Russian temperament was extremely well presented by each of the three. Like the earlier entrants, they gave such a smooth performance, with the action speeded up so well, that the program was concluded by 10 o'clock, allowing the audience to leave the theater at an usually early hour. This was commented upon very favorably in view of the fact that two more evenings await the players and their friends.

Tonight's program will feature the Hollywood Players in "The 100 Per Cent Wife," by Gladys Wood, with Louise Avery Hastings directing; Riverside Community Players in Milne's "The Camberly Triangle," directed by Janet Scott;

First, it is made sheer, pure white organdie and tulle, than which nothing can of sheer, pure white organdie and tulle, than which nothing can be more summery or dainty for a moonlight party. Second, its silhouette is one of the future, the true princess line with a long skirt that trails gracefully behind. Third, it takes the vogue for ruching trim seriously and uses, two, three and four rows of tulle ruching to reruuffle its flaring, feminine skirt. A double ruching out-lines the neck and falls like a lei. This frock would make a stunning bridesmaid style, done in pastel shades and topped by a floppy hat.

DISTINCTION REASONABLENESS

Augusta Maria

By RAY H. MANSON Chief Engineer Stromberg-Carlson

The rectifier is the heart of a dynamic speaker just as the power plant is the heart of an A. C. re ceiver, for the operation of both speaker and receiver is dependent upon the power supplied.

The function of the rectifier used in a dynamic or moving coil speaker is to supply direct current to the field winding of the speaker, and the greater the amount of current it supplies, the more satisfactorily the speaker will operate. The amount of current supplied this winding determines the amount of magnetism, or field strength the speaker will have. The field strength or excitation of this type of speaker is very important, for on it the sensitivity of the speaker to weak signals depends entirely.

A speaker having a high field excitation has a field strength of anywhere from 14 to 18 watts, whereas many of the standard units have only 5 or 7 watts. Because of limitations in size, units that are usually built into a console receiver sometimes have only an excitation of four watts.

The importance of high field excitation can be explained best as follows: The power that drives the cone of a speaker is dependent upon the reaction between the magnetism set up in the speaker's field winding and that set up in the moving coil which is attached to the cone. Thus, if a definite amount of audio frequency current is flowing through this moving coil, the dynamic speakers having the higher field excitation will give the biggest movement with cone. In other words, if the volume control is turned up to give a certain volume on one of the low excitation speakers, and a high excitation unit is substituted, there will be a notable increase in volume coming from the latter as compared with the former. Thus, for maximum reaction to weak broadcast field excitation is very essential. | skull. Sanderson died later.

ALASKANS WANT NEWS BROADCAS

CHICAGO, April 25.—From the interior of Alaska has come a plea for news by radio.

The request is contained in a letter to WENR from Mrs. Inez E. Moore, Alaska division, Bureau of Education, U. S. Department of Interior, stationed at Shungnak, Alaska. Mrs. Moore says that she is able to tune in the Chicago station every night. She wrote:

"News items from several stations mean so much to us. Would we be imposing on you to ask you to read a few items just before you sing your closing song? We would be very grateful. The Oakland station, KGO, is putting on Alaska News flashes twice a week, but sometimes we are un able to get this station and we regret it, for they have been so kind, and they seem to pick news which we most desire.

"We are 70 miles north of the Arctic Circle and about 400 miles inland from Kotzebue Sound. In winter, only first-class mail is carried on the dog sleds and that comes just once a month, so we must wait until boats run in summer for our papers and mag-azines. Thanks to the radio, we get much news almost as soon as those at home."

Religious Needs Of Indian Told Missionary Federation

'I am not ashamed of the Gospe' of Jesus Christ," declared Charles Troutman, speaking to the womer of the City Federation of Missionary Societies, which met yesterday in the United Presbyterian church here. Due to illnss, his wife, who was scheduled to appear, was unable to be present.

"I am not ashamed of the Gospe of Jesus Christ because it is the means of salvation. You get a thrill of satisfaction when you know you are serving and it is your business, as Christians, to be ambassadors of Jesus Christ."

These words were spoken by Troutman in an address on the subject. "The Navajo: His Needs and the Remedy." Troutman became interested in American Indians when he visited a missionary friend who was ill at his post Flagstaff, Ariz., shortly after being dismissed from war service He agreed to substitute for his friend for two months while the missionary recuperated, but a year passed before Troutman returned to his own work, inspired to assist in the religious education of the Indian.

Need Inside Cleaning

"They need to be cleaned up in-side," he said, "for if they are clean within they will want to be particular about the exterior. They need to be educated, because only four out of 10 can talk English. They have their own language, but very few of them read or write. They also need sanitation.

"But above all these people need a Savior, which means the power of God unto salvation. You cannot get too much of Jesus Christ-you of several Santa Ana artists and might get too much religion."

group and the Indians. Joe Chicol, native of Guatemala, told the story in English of his father and his own conversion. He gave an entertaining survey of his days in the mission schools. Later in the afternoon the talented young man played a piano selecion by request and, in so doing, illustrated the ambition of Indians who receive the advantages of the mission schools.

Native Appeals For Aid Trinidad Bok, another native Guatemalan, appealed for the furtherance of financial aid for inspirational and practical educa-tion of the Indian. He told of the natives' appreciation for the work of the Townsends in their districts. He plans to return to his country Saturday. Cameron Townsend in-terpreted the message of Bok yes-

Curry powder is an Oriental product, as common to the East Indian as salt and pepper to the Occidental. It is a composition like Katherine Mayo's consistency of several herbs and roots and is just tricky enough to upset your whole recipe if you are not acquainted with its idiosyncrasies. It will not agree with salt if cooking is under way-it curdles promptly. It needs the suave influence of SWEET butter to destroy its bitter taste, and a tlny of candy in his sweetheart's room, bit of sugar to high-light its best points . . . apart from these few

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder of tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.

Five Champions and Five Youngsters Make Up the Team That Plays England's Best Golfers in the International Matches This Week, So Success Depends Upon the Unseasoned Men's Performance

Conqueror of Bobby Jones for the national open title. . . Great things are expected of him.

BOB MATHERNE

T WON'T come as any great big surprise if a very healthy spanking is admin-istered the golfing sons of Great Britain when they attempt within the next few days to regain possession of the Ryder Cup over the Moortown course at Leeds, England.

For it is generally assumed that the rotund Walter Hagen and the band of crack linksmen now with him on British soil will retain possession of the beautiful trophy by Samuel Ryder, wealthy British sportsman and golf enthusiast, to stimulate international match play.

The disheartening aspect to this expected American victory in the Ryder Cup matches is that it will then make it all the more likely that an American golfer will win the British open championship at Muirfield early in May. In seven of the past eight open championships an American has It does look as though the sons of John Bull are in for a heavy dose of bad news.

If they care anything at all for dope, there isn't much in the advance forecast of these two events for them to find cause for making whoopee.

THE first Ryder Cup matches were played at Wentworth, England, in 1926, and the British won. The personnel of the British winters included Mitchell, Duncan, Ray, Havers, Compston, Boomer, Gadd, E. R. Whitcombe, Jolly and Robson. The American losers were Mehlhorn, French, Barnes, Hagen, Kirkwood, McLeod, Armour, Watrous, Walker and Stein. And the defeat was overwhelming. Somehow or other, British experts did not make much of this victory. They were inclined at the time to take it lightly, and the reason for this can be seen from the statement of one

The Americans played hard as usual," he wrote, "but it seemed as if they were playing with their eyes on the open championship. The matches had been arranged hastily. The Americans had timed their arrival to play in them as most of them were over here for a crack at the open title, and it appeared at times as if they were merely practicing for the big event."

The second Ryder Cup matches were played at Worcester, Mass., in 1927, and the Americans had little trouble in conquering their British opponents. The score in points was 9½ to 2½. The Americans lost only one single match, that in which George Duncan beat Joe Turnesa one up, and halved one, the Sarazen-Whitcombe match. Boomer and Whitcombe won the only foursome for the British team, from Diagel and Mehlborn Diegel and Mehlhorn.

Ten men played on each team when the first matches were played in England in 1926. Eight-man teams played at Worcester in 1927 and that is the number that will engage in the matches this summer.

TT MAY be explained here that foursomes are played the first day of the matches and singles are played the second. Foursomes are matches in which two partners play alternate strokes, as distinguished from four-ball matches in which each player uses an individual ball. The foursomes never have been extremely popular in this country; on the other hand, this style of play is a great favorite in Great Britain. Because of this, it was expected, when the matches were played here in 1926, that the Americans would suffer in the foursomes, but they did not in the least as the results

THE PARTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF TH

The foursomes each count one point in the scoring and the single matches each count one point. This makes a total of 12 points to be fought for. No extra-hole matches are played. If the players are even, the match is halved and each team is allotted one-half point in the scoring.

The Americans on the 1927 team were Johnny Farrell, who played at No. 1 position; Leo Diegel, John Golden, Bill Mehlhorn, Joe Turnesa, Walter Hagen, Al Watrous and Gene Sarazen. The British players were Aubrey Boomer, Ted Ray, H. C. Jolly, Archie Compston, George

The American team of home-bred professionals gathered this year for the defense of the Ryder trophy is conceded to be the finest and most popular group ever assembled for the purpose. It is a team of comparative youngsters, but youngsters who have displayed remarkable golfing skill.

Through a generous gesture of Leo Diegel, whose victory in the U. S. professional golfers' championship entitled him to the captaincy of the Ryder Cup team, Walter Hagen again is in charge of the invaders. Diegel graciously suggested that Hagen be given charge again, because of his previous experience in the post, and his suggestion was carried out.

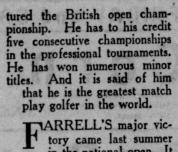

THE American pros named with Hagen many THE American pros named with Hagen many weeks ago to compose the squad are Johnny Farrell, national open champion; Gene Sarazen, former national open titlist; Leo Diegel, Canadian open and professional champion; Horton Smith, the kid pro from Joplin, Mo., who has been in the money in nearly every meet this winter; Al Watrous of Detroit, Ed Dudley of Los Angeles, Al Espinosa of Chicago, Billy Burke of Port Chester, N. J., Willie Klein of Florida, Joe Turnesa of Florida and John Golden of La Jolla, Calif.

All of these, except Hagen, Espinosa and Golden, are youngsters.

world over, it is Hagen. The peerless "Haig" has won tory came last summer in the national open. It had been said of Farrell that he was shy the requisites to grab off a major title, but those who expressed those sentiments were saying other-wise after Farrell meted out defeat to Bobby Jones at Chicago last summer in a grueling play-off match for the title. He campaigned throughout the provinces with Gene Sarazen, capitalizing on his championship during the winter, after he had won the title, and his game suffered. But a long rest followed and the past few weeks he has played in Florida—and played excellently.

Diegel is a veteran of many hard tournaments and has just missed grabbing the national open on three occa-sions. But he defeated no less a person than Hagen to win the profes-sional title and he has been keeping ahead of many great favorites in tournaments since then.

Sarazen, a former national open king, happens to be one of the most confident and consistent of the American pros. He has been playing a smashing game in Florida the past few weeks.

smashing game in Florida the past few weeks.

Joe Turnesa is one of the hard luck players among pros. Able to keep within pace of the best, with every shot in the bag under control, he has missed by narrow margins two important titles—the national open four years ago when he missed a 10-foot put to tie Bobby Jones and the professional championship when he was runner-up to Diegel.

The kid Smith from Joplin, just of voting age, has been the sensation of the winter meets. He has been styled the champion runner-up of the year, and climaxed the season by winning the $5000 first prize in the LaGorce tournament in Florida a proroached the heights many times in recent years, but always (Copyright, 1928, NEA Magazine—Frinted in U. Horton Smith. . . . Kid

There is, of course, an "if" in the assumption that the Americans will win. The "if" is always there in a golf game, and the big "if" of the coming matches revolves around the youngsters on the team. Their play should be the deciding factor in victory or defeat.

Of course, it may be remembered that Bill Mehlhorn, who played on the two previous Ryder Cup teams, was left off. Mehlhorn did nothing during the past year that warranted his being on the team, but the moment he was left off he pro-ceeded to play some of the most brilliant rounds of golf any man

Mehlhorn's case can be stated briefly. On the face of his play last summer, he was left off; on the naments and others that followed that, he might be of some aid to the Americans. But no one ever knows what Mehlhorn is likely to do. He may smash par all to smithereens on one round and then smash every club in the bag on the next round.

Conservative old England is making no secret that it has some hopes of lifting the Ryder Cup in the coming matches. George Duncan, captain of the team, has been very active the past few weeks, whipping the team in shape, even going to the extent of forgetting his position as a pro for a few weeks to tend to the business of supervising the details of

It is a somewhat altered team from the one that was together at Worcester that the British will offer in competition this year. It is a team of capable veterans and young-sters whose skill has improved in recent months. Ted Ray is missing. Duncan may not play himself. And four members of the team are youngsters, who are heralded as future golfing greats of Britain.

THE British squad is composed of George Duncan, Aubrey Boomer, Archie Compston, Stewart Burns, Harry Cotton, Perry Alliss, Abe Mitchell, E. Whitcombe, Charles Whitcombe and Fred Robson. Burns, Cotton, Alliss and Ernest Whitcombe are the kids of the squad.
Hagen has great respect for Alliss' ability. He played with the American on a tour of Germany last summer.

with the American on a tour of Germany last summer, and showed Hagen many nice rounds of golf. Cotton is a 21-year-old pro who has been wintering in Florida and, while his game has not won any big money down there, he is expected to prove much better on his home soil. Little is known of Burns, for he never has visited here. Whitcombe is reputed one of the best young players of Great Britain.

England's chances of taking away the trophy seem very slim, but it is no sorry team that John Bull will send into competition against the invading Americans and it is a team slim, but it is no sorry team that John Bull will send into competition against the invading Americans and it is a team that will force the Americans to the limit if they are to retain possession of the Ryder Cup.

After the Ryder Cup matches will come the British open championship at Muirfield, the sporty course where Jess Sweetser won the British amateur championship in 1926 with one of the greatest exhibitions of gameness in golf history.

With all odds against him, the memory of a poor showing in England on a previous trip, suffering from a touch of the flu that forced him out of competition for many months afterward. Sweetser won the amateur title against the most forward, Sweetser won the amateur title against the most for-midable competition to give the United States its first victory in this event in 22 years. The previous American victory had been that of Walter J. Travis in 1904.

ONE of the Americans should win the British title again if the U. S. team conquers the British in the Ryder Cup matches. An American has won the title seven times in the past eight years, and this may be another year. The prospects of such a victory will be enhanced greatly if Bobby Jones is present, but even with Jones absent there will be a terrible assault on this prized title by the pros already

As a matter of record, it may be stated that Jock Hutchinson won the British open in 1921 and since then the sole British victory came in 1923 when Arthur Havers won. Hagen has taken the title three times, Bobby Jones twice and Jim Barnes once, since Hutchinson won.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, April 26—(UP)—Passgae of the farm relief bill by the house, considered a discounted factor by Chicago traders, became the cause of higher wheat prices here today when American political action brought heavy short covering at Liverpool and futures advanced in sympathy with that market. Corn and oats moved upward with wheat. Provisions were litle changed.

At the close wheat was ½c lower to ½c higher, corn was ½ to le higher and oats were ½ to ½c higher. Corn turned strong as wheat reacted from its early weakness and made fair gains during the morning. Character of news was little changed. Cash prices were unchanged to ½c higher. Receipts 92 cars.

Oats moved higher with corn during the fore part of the session but offerings were light and trading rather quiet. Receiptsw ere 52 cars.

BONDS

By OTTO E. STURM

NEW YORK, April 26.—(UP)—
Buoyancy in convertibles and continued steadiness in the domestic industrials featured a moderately active session on the bond market today. Miscellaneous rails again accounted for a large part of the turnover while the list of utilities was quiet. Foreign obligations held steady. U. S. Government sceurities sold off on the firmness in the money markets. Much of the trading in the foreign obligations was again in the German issues, which held steady despite the break to new low ground in the mark. German 7s, Deutche bank 6s and German agricultural bank 6s of July 1960 featured.

News stories are constantly published opposed to prohibition and its enforcement. This is drifting on the surface, and patient work toward a sample of his specious argument:

"Everybody knows that the laws ought to be respected; just as everybody knows that women ought to be respected, and that women are respected by every decent man.

"But occasionally there is a woman who is not respected, who is not respectable, who does not respect herself, and whom no one in his heart can respect, no matter what outward observance of respect he may render.

"And so, occasionally, there are laws which cannot be respected, no matter how they are observed by good citizens."

The conclusion, of course, from this is that the law which prohibits the exploitation of the soberness of people is not respectable and should not be respected. The gambler, the thug, and the murderer have the same opinion of the law which they desire to

Mr. Hearst, in the course of his long argument, evidences that he justifies his position wholly on a foolish premise, and that is, that the whole tendency of law violation in this country and the cheapness knows better than this. course, law-enforcement machinery should be respected; but how can it be respected when the head of the machine tells the law-enforcement officers that the recent liquor law must not be enforced against all the community, but only against part of the community -must not be enforced in all cases, but only in some cases-and that the discretion for its enforcement lies in the hands of the law-enforc-

"How this decision leaves the door wide open to blackmail and bribery and corruption, when corruption is already rotting the social and political fabric of the nation!"

This should be read and pondered over by every citizen, for the conditions which it emphasizes are prevalent everywhere. While these things are true, and the ignorant foreigner in many cases furnishes the headlines for the alleged enforcement of our prohibitory law, at the same time the condition is one that should be met on its merits, and it does not go to the value of the prohibitory law as such.

We are glad the issue has been drawn between the President and the great class of citizens whom he represents, and William Randolph Hearst and the been made and a line of demarkation has been drawn, we can expect the issue to be fought out on firm lines and come to definite results.

HONOR A BRAVE FIGHTER

We would not wish to let this opportunity pass to say a word for the brave fighter, the late Senator Robert La Follette, as his statue has just been unveiled in the Hall of Fame in Washington.

Senator La Follette was undoubtedly one of the two most forceful figures who have ever been in America's national public life. Theodore Roosevelt being the other.

Senator La Follette's program did not cover as wide a field of interest as did Mr. Roosevelt's, but he did, in those things which he undertook, go to will be "on the air" by radio, every day of every the bottom of them and carried through such re- session. Many men have resigned and retired broken in spirit as well as in health, but during those power-testing times Robert La Follette stood steadfast, unafraid and again gained a certain amount of supremacy and power due to his ability, his inherent worth, and his devotion to the public good.

Now comes the unveiling of his statue and the honor which is bestowed upon him. We are thrilled or less cheerfulness. It has reached a pretty pass, however, when federal appointments are bought by gifts of hogs to Southern politicians; and it is products of our democracy, he evidences again the gratifying to know that President Hoover has taken steps to clean up this Southern patronage business.

LET THERE BE NO FALSE MOVES

A few days ago the interested public studied through the text and the reportorial diagnosis of Hugh Gibson's address to the Geneva preparatory disarmament conference. The gist of the conciliation made in that address deals with the method of approaching the problem of tonnage. The United States, after contending that the best method of approach was limitation by categories announced, through its ambassador, that it would be agreeable to approach the problem by the French method William Randolph Hearst has made reply to Pres- under which a total tonnage should be assigned to ident Hoover's enforcement speech. Some time ago Ramsay MacDonald addressed the American people appealing for complete understanding between the two nations. "Both countries ought to appoint five or six of their most outstanding public men, representative of the whole nation," discuss the causes of the trouble. Mr. MacDonald's suggestion is especially important and significant because, following the approaching bye-elections, he may be premier of England. Mr. Hugh Gibson's address, more recent than Mr. MacDonald's, appears to be in harmony with the latter since it aims to smooth the way for conference. But certainly before going into any such conference the two nations, as according to Mr. MacDonald, should get together and settle the differences which are between them. But could they do that? That is considerable of a question in the mind of Albert Jay Nock, who

CHARACTER AND TRAINING COUNT

The outstanding event in educational circles has been the selection of Dr. Robert Hutchins as President of Chicago University. He is but thirty years of age. His father, President of Berea College, Kentucky, is but 57.

His career has been rather remarkable. He graduated from an academy prepared for college when he was 16 years of age, took two years of college work, and then served overseas and received the Italian medal, Croce De Guerra, for bravery. He returned and graduated from Yale at the age of 22. He has made every hour of his life count. He is one of the finest combinations of ability and character which any one individual, probably, can embody. When a person comes in to swear out a warrant against a neighbor for some petty offense, they tell him to "come back tomorrow," and they have found that in the vast majority of cases he does not come back at all.

In other words, people do revengeful things on impulse that they do not do on second thought. When they have suffered some wrong their first impulse is to get even, so they hurry to the prosecutor; but when they are given 24 hours in which to ponder the matter, they usually decide that revenge isn't really worth having. THE LEAGUE AND THE WHALES

The League of Nations had determined to make rules and regulations for the protection of young whales.

Farewell to the worries of baby cetaceans

Pursued by rude mariners over the deep, They have now become wards of the great League of Nations And while still they are babies they sweetly shall sleep.

No pot hunting vessels henceforth shall alarm them, No more from harpoon and from lance need they hide, No flesh-ripping bombs shall have power to harm them As they rest on the breast of the tremulous tide.

In their yearly migrations they never need falter In fear they'll be slain for their blubber and bone. They may range from Cape Nome to the Straits of Gibraltar Assured that nursuers will let them alone.

A hand from Geneva is stretched to defend them, No rude, brutal skipper can make them his spoil, Until they are adults shall safeguards attend them-The arm of the League the despoiler shall foil.

But alas when at last they have grown to maturity

And carelessly cruise into inlets and bays No more they'll enjoy the delightful security Which hedged them about in their infantile days. For though for the nonce they can dart about airily And spout and cavort off Cape Cod or Napeague, When they're aged and frail they will have to swim warily

For then they'll be out of control by the League.

Has the Federal Reserve System Raised Wages?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

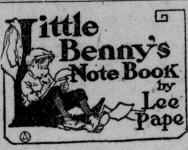

NOTE.—Dr. Foster, eminent economist, is head of the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research; Mr. Catchings, renowned banker, began his career as a law clerk. The two have studied economics in all its phases, from the scientific viewpoint and from the practical. The keynote of their writings is: Prosperity can be made permanent.

The Federal Reserve System has had a large part in making the past five years in the United States the most prosperous of

And our prosperity has not been revealed merely by indexes of business, or stock dividends, or real estate speculation, or co-efficients of correlation, or other things that most of us cannot understand or enjoy. Our prosperity has been as real and easy to understand as a Great Big Baked Potato. It has not been illusory, as it is when our gains in wages do not keep pace with the rising prices of the things we have to buy.

On the contrary, real wages—by which is meant the goods that wages will buy—have increased since the Federal Reserve System began about twice as much as in the previous quartercentury. According to the extensive study by Paul H. Douglas, soon to be published by the Pollak Foundation, the annual real earnings of workers in American industries rose only nine per cent from 1890 to 1919, but about twenty per cent in the next seven
